About Me

Hi! I'm an AI/ML enthusiast with a deep interest in exploring diverse topics across computer science and the business world. I work as a backend developer and am on the path to becoming an ML engineer. Beyond code, I enjoy reading books, scripting stories, and contributing to content creation. I'm also passionate about researching emerging technologies and diving into cutting-edge research papers. This blog is my space to share what I learn, build, and think about as I grow in tech and beyond.
